Product Description and Scope of Services

TeachingBooks.net strives to equitably give all readers insights and opportunities that deepen their understanding and joy of the books they are reading. The focus of the service is supporting student achievement, harnessing technology to enhance reading experiences, and offering meaningful professional development for the books being used in your community.

TeachingBooks.net is an extensive database of literacy resources and tools that enrich reading and literacy instruction of K–12 titles. Each resource is included in the database to easily integrate a digital, informative component into existing literacy and library work. Discover original author interviews, movies, professional book readings, book discussion guides, author name pronunciations, and much more!

Implementation Opportunities

TeachingBooks.net delivers to your learning community:

- Integrated digital resources to support all K–12 curricular areas.
- Opportunities for every student to watch, hear and learn from authors and illustrators virtually.
- Engage readers with ready-to-use resources that supplement literacy work.
- Connections for families to engage in meaningful conversations about books.

Professional Development

Support educators' professional development focusing on literacy instruction including incorporation of blended learning and technology integration. Teachers receive many PD benefits from TeachingBooks.net. We offer complimentary live webinars, unlimited phone support, archived video demonstrations, and a comprehensive collection of support and training tools.
